The Palatinate

The Palatinate is a paradise for wine lovers, hobby bikers, hikers and culture enthusiasts and it offers the ideal prerequisites for everyone who wants a holiday being active, relaxing and enjoying. Known for its zest for life, this region with its Mediterranean climate and unique cultural landscape inspires its people to celebrate life and invites its visitors to wholeheartedly join in. Whether in the Biosphere Reserve Pfälzerwald, travelling the length of the German Wine Route, in the Rhine plain or in the North Palatine Uplands: this is where your holiday really begins!

And this leisure activity guide will help you discover what's happening where – regardless of what cultural, sporting challenge or outdoor recreation you are looking for. Arranged across the four vacation regions of the Palatinate, this leisure guide will show you the way to over 480 excursion tips for your vacation. There is something to be found for everyone in the Palatinate with its 150 museums, more than 100 particularly sightseeing-worthy castles, stately manors and churches, 60 swimming pool parks and bathing lakes, 9 golf courses and more than 150 attractions ranging from the „Zipline Park“ in Elmstein to a Roman ship.

Whatever you choose,
have fun!

Experience the Palatinate – accessibility certified.

Have an eventful holiday – without having to give up any comfort – that's the guiding principle behind accessibility in tourism. Applied, "Travel for All" means: Not only people with disabilities, but also persons with baby carriages or older people profit from building design features that have already been implemented at many accommodation providers, recreational facilities, at wine-makers or in the public sphere in general.

As judged by the countrywide competition "Tourism for All", the Palatinate is a forerunner in all things connected with accessibility in Rhineland-Palatinate. Visitors with disa-

The bus and rail system – your magic carpet to fun

Wherever you want to go within the entire region, you are on easy street if you use the buses and rail transit options of the VRN (Verkehrsverbund Rhein-Neckar). Comfortable, economical and all-inclusive with just one ticket. The ideal ticket for your leisure time is the Day Ticket, which is offered in three price categories for up to five persons. Starting at a price of € 6.70 for one person, every additional person costs € 2.70 and up (price schedule: January/2018) and is valid for one calendar day until 3:00 am of the following day. Transport options include all buses, streetcars and approved trains ("RE" Regional Express, "RB" Regional, "S" Suburban trains). And the best advantage

Palatinate Hill Country and Donnersberg mountain

on the Lichtenberg Castle in the Palatinate Hill Country*

You could easily fall in love with the expanse of this landscape with its gently rolling hills, the fields and meadows, the small forests, streams and the vines of the Alsenz and Zeller valley. The Kusel district Musikantenland (“Musician’s Land”) and the area surrounding the Donnersberg mountain, which with 687 metres is the highest point in the Palatinate, are retreats for people looking for peace and relaxation.

Hiking break in front of the Castle Church in Meisenheim

It is no wonder that the Celts made themselves at home on the broad high plateau of the Donnersberg. This time is brought to life once again in the Celtic village and garden in Steinbach. And everywhere around, the castle ruins and other cultural monuments bear testimony to the eventful history of this area.

... don't miss it!

Donnersberg mountain
Celtic Village in Steinbach
County town of Kusel
Glan Valley

» There are many opportunities to let your mind and spirit relax and unwind: whether during hiking, cycling or canoeing. «

Full of atmosphere: the Donnersberg mountain, “in the Palatinate way up high”

It is not a mountain, but rather a series of hills that are the distinctive feature of the neighbouring Palatinate hill country. The sparse beauty of this area enchants the visitors today, but in earlier times the inhabitants of this area around the county town of Kusel did not have an easy life and were forced to work as travelling musicians across the world in winter. The musicians’ county museum tells about this era, and is one of many small museums in which the people lovingly maintain their traditions.

There are many opportunities to let your mind and spirit relax and unwind, whether during hiking, cycling or canoeing. And whoever is looking for something a bit more unusual can book a pedal-powered rail trolley trip through the picturesque Glan Valley. The people are especially proud of their fresh regional-typical products. Quaint farm shops, distilleries and guest houses with regional menus invite you to titillate your palate.

Vacation Region

Rhine Plain

The idyllic Old Rhine in southern Palatinate

The Palatinate Rhine Plains entices you to get on your bike: The landscape is criss-crossed by an extensive network of level cycling paths where you ride through aced fields, scenic villages with half-timbered façades and small forests along the way.

The country lives off the land, and the fertile farmland provides a whole range of delicious treats such as asparagus, strawberries or “new potatoes”. Creative chefs find everything they need here for their fresh food kitchens, and holiday guests can buy what takes their fancy at the side of the road or in the numerous farm shops.

This paradise for vegetables is bordered by the flow of the Rhine and a landscape of inimitable charm: the alluvial forests with their lush vegetation, inviting man-made ponds and dreamy old arms of the Rhine, which, for example, can be explored on the premium Treidlerweg (“tow path”) trail in the Hördter Rheinaue wetlands nature reserve.

» The country lives off the land and the fertile farmland provides a whole range of delicious treats such as asparagus, strawberries or ‘new potatoes’. «

*UNESCO world cultural heritage monument
– the Speyer Cathedral*

... don't miss it!

Extensive network of level cycling paths

A paradise for vegetable lovers

Bienwald & Rheinauen nature reserves

UNESCO world cultural heritage site

In 1573, the very first tobacco plants in Germany were grown in the district of Germersheim. And when the holidaymakers cycle today in the southern Palatinate along the tobacco paths through the pink blossoming fields, they may even see storks in the meadows.

Decide for yourself whether you want to swim, sail, or canoe – or, maybe, just lie in the sun for a while. Even a rowing trip with an original reproduction of a Roman ship “Lusoria Rhenana” is possible. A lot of fun with a historical background to boot!

A further insiders tip for nature lovers is the Bienwald, a unique protected area rich in flora and fauna.

The more than 2000 year old imperial city of Speyer enchants you with the coexistence of its living history and the joie de vivre for the present age. In addition to monuments and museums, the city is the home to the magnificent UNESCO world cultural heritage listed cathedral with the imperial graves, built in 1030 by the Salian monarch Konrad II.

The Maximilianstraße and Speyer promenade convey a certain Mediterranean character with the quirky vivacity of its cafés and shops and the grace of its baroque houses that say a lot about the Palatinate way of living

Rheinaue Wetlands / Bienwald Forest Nature Reserves

The Rheinaue wetlands landscape of the southern Palatinate fascinates visitors by means of its untouched state and its extraordinary flora and fauna. The "Palatinate primeval forest" is earmarked by virgin riparian woods, clear ponds and lakes, widespread wooded areas and picturesque arms of the Old Rhine whose paths meander until they finally find their way to the straight-away of the main Rhine artery. In the furthest south of the Palatinate on the border to France lies the 12,000 hectares of the Bienwald Forest, the largest wooded area in the Palatinate Rhine plain. With its babbling brooks and gnarled, old oaks, the landscape invites visitors, especially cyclists, hikers and those seeking recreation, to take extended tours. The real charm of the area is a combination of the diversity of landscapes running the gamut from dry dunes all the way to alder marsh forests, while Celtic graves, Roman milestones, redoubts and the Westwall bunker whisper their own moving stories of the southern Palatinate of the past.

Vacation Region

Palatinate Forest

Rödelstein on the Wasgau rock path in southwest Palatinate

There are many unique features of this landscape in the heart of the Palatinate. With an area of more than 180,000 hectares, the Palatinate forest is Germany's largest contiguous area of woodland. The natural and hiking paradise has formed a cross-border biosphere reserve together with the Northern Vosges in Alsace since 1992.

12,000 kilometres of marked hiking paths, more than 1,300 kilometres of graded hiking trails and a unique network of more than 100 quaint huts transform a hike into an unforgettable experience. Romantic castle ruins, mythical rock formations and dreamy villages make the giant forest area with its open valleys to a well-loved landscape for relaxation.

Two cities with a host of cultural and shopping opportunities offer a change of pace from country life: The university city and football stronghold of Kaiserslautern with the largest dinosaur exhibition in Europe at the garden park and outstanding cultural showcases such as the Pfalztheater and the Museum Pfalzgalerie. Not to mention Pirmasens, once the centre of shoe production and today still a top address for attractively priced shoes with its neighbouring towns of Hauenstein and Rodalben.

Information on the interaction of people and the environment can be found in the Haus der Nachhaltigkeit" (house of sustainability) in Johanniskreuz and the Biosphere house in Fischbach. Spectacular nature experiences are also offered at the "Baumwipfelpfad" (Treetop Path) in Fischbach and the Zipline Park in Elmstein-Iggelbach. This is where visitors can walk at the height of the treetops – or make an exit that you will not make everyday using a giant slide!

Vacation Region

The German Wine Route

Roman Winery Weilberg near Bad Dürkheim-Ungstein

Nature has been good to this stretch of land where figs, kiwis and lemons grow and where you can be enchanted by the “savoir vivre” in picturesque villages. Whether cycling among the sea of vines, hiking between the Palatinate forest huts and wine-growing villages, strolling through the alleyways of the historic city centres or “wine wellness” where the emphasis is on the benefits of wine in the health resorts of Bad Dürkheim and Bad Bergzabern, there is no shortage of free time and recreational opportunities.

Almond blossoms in the Palatinate Region

The following goes for destinations of exploration tours as well as along the German Wine Route: numerous stony witnesses bear testimony to the eventful Palatinate history, ranging from the ruins of Roman settlements to castle ruins and manor houses.

... don't miss it!

The touristic route
“The German Wine Route”

Landau and Neustadt

Hambach castle

Wine festivals

» There is no shortage of free time and recreational opportunities. «

Right in the centre of the Palatinate wine country are two towns: the busy university town of Landau with its zoo and its impressive Art Nouveau (Jugendstil) architecture, and Neustadt an der Weinstraße, the site of the annual selection and coronation of the German Wine Queen, with the Hambach castle, the “birthplace of German democracy”. Both towns are characterized by their romantic wine-growing villages. Here, as elsewhere on the German Wine Route, the people love to celebrate. With more than 200 festivals – some of them folkloric, some elegant – guests can get to know the country and its people. Join in the celebrations!
